

CE-891 Riley House

c. 1850-1860

The Riley Property provides an unusual comparison between the main house and adjacent tenant house. The four bay main elevation that includes two central front doors is repeated on the single story tenant house. The four bay x one room hall parlor house with two central front doors is not an uncommon house type for the county since they are found in the eighth, the sixth, the fourth, and the fifth election districts.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Riley House c. 1850-1870 is a 2^{1/2} story frame structure located on New Bridge Road. The main facade has a southern exposure and the main gable runs east/west. Located on the property also, are a few buildings and a barn across the road. A chicken coop, tenant house and privy are located near the main residence.

The main 2^{1/2} story block is 4 bays across by 2 bays deep. A 1^{1/2} story gabled addition extends from the back of the house and is 2 bays across by 1 bay deep. A shed roof porch with square chamfered supports extends across the main facade.

The entire structure rests on an uncoursed stone basement. The exterior is sheathed with asbestos siding. There is a medium sloped asphalt tile roof.

The south facade is 4 bays across with the central 2 bays being 4 panel doors. The window fenestration is symmetrical, however, there are only three windows on the second floor. The sash is 6/6 and the trim is plain. The eaves are extended and the soffits left open.

The west gable end has two openings on the first floor, 1 on the second, and 1 at the attic level. There is a stretcher bond stove flue in this gable end.

The east gable end has identical detailing with the addition of a gabled cellar entrance with uncoursed stone foundation, and asphalt tile roof.

The north side has ^{the} two story and a half rear addition with basic detailing. The roof is slate.

The barn is located across the street and is typical with an entrance to the second floor at road level. The basement level is exposed on the south side. A small ONE STORY tenant house is located to the west of the main house. It is a duplex type of building with separate entrances. There are two 5 panel front doors and 6/6 sash windows. The entire structure is covered with novelty siding. There is a shed roof across the front of the house. The smallest outbuilding is the privy with 2 moon shaped ventilators. The roof is of medium slope with a slate covering.

The interior of the main house was not open to inspection at time of visit.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Riley Farm is a late 19th Century group of buildings that retain a great deal of their 19th Century character. The house has been remodeled to some extent but still retains its integrity as a 19th Century structure with numerous shed or gabled extensions. The house serves as another example of the influx of people to this once relatively unpopulated area.
